

Make it personal

Warm, cool, inviting, or atmospheric – a deft choice of colour has a major impact on your project

Standing out or seamlessly fitting in are often roles that fall to paint finishes. However, there are other ways that a paint choice can make the difference to a project.

For this project, designers Yellowfox and QPC Build Group opted to add colour to the master bedroom to differentiate the private space from the rest of the home.

Plus, introducing a slightly darker, moodier colour to the walls – Resene Tuna – and leaving both the trims and ceilings in Resene Half Black White helps to frame the private and generous-sized bedroom.

The dark tone also makes the bedroom's custom feature wooden shutters pop.

Resene Tuna was carried right through the room to luxurious effect. A matte finish, such as Resene SpaceCote Flat, brings extra depth and luxe to dark colours.

The paint introduced a strong sense of character in its own right, and this look is accentuated when paired with darker linens and drapes. The result is a character-filled retreat that is refined and elegant.

The designers chose Resene for the rest of the interior, too, including opting for Resene Half Gravel in the powder room.
